

DILOPHOSAURUS

DILOPHOSAURUS

Dilophosaurus gets its name from the two thin crests of bone on the top of its head. Dilophosaurus didn't have forward facing eyes to give it stereo vision. It may have used scent as an integral part of its hunting technique.

Another misconception is the expandable neck frill. Fact is, it does not exist.

In the movie it is shown spitting poison at its prey to blind it. There is no proof whatsoever that this dinosaur was poisonous, or that any dinosaur could spray venom in the same way depicted in the film.

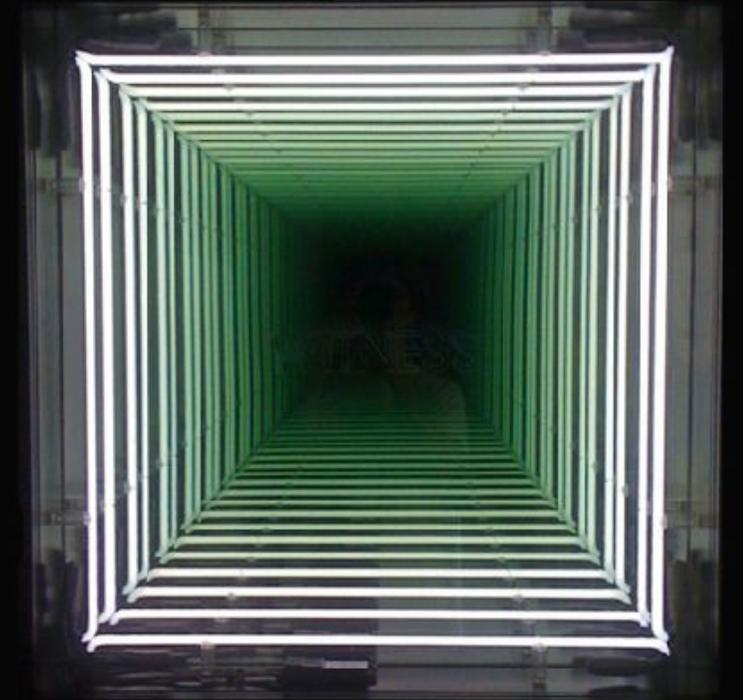

However, Dilophosaurus had strong front arms which would have been effective in grabbing prey weighed as much as 5 large boars and was about 0meters long.

THE IDEA

OPTICAL ILLUSION, to depict weak eye-sight

Your journey will begin with a walk through a dark tunnel where you will experience an area where the water flows upwards, crossing an alleyway only to enter into a space with mind-blowing optical illusions, where nothing is at it seems.

Instead of a normal plane mirror that reflects a perfect mirror image, there are distorting mirrors in the space. So every once in a while, you'll look at yourself and it won't be you!

OPTICAL ILLUSION, to depict weak eye-sight

WATER GUN FIGHT, to depict non-poisonous venom

Come to a space where you get poisonous guns, hahahahah jk, they are just water guns! Play with your friends and other children to learn that the Dilophosaurus did not spit venom. It was as harmless as water.

DINO BUNGEE PULL, Showing Dino's strength

How far can you get until the scary dinosaur pulls you back as its prey? Compete with friends and siblings or just test your strength!

HUNT THE PREY, to depict scent as an integral part of the hunting technique

Sand pits and fossil digs are out of fashion. Find the prey in a way you've never done it before. A treasure hunt made with papers for finding out what Dilophosaurus eats (Mostly meat) Don't worry, it won't stink, it would be the best fragrance ever. and you'll only feel it when you're near it.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Dinosaur dot-to-dot

Make your own skeleton with pasta

